GLOBAL ALLIANCE FOR TB DRUG DEVELOPMENT

Marshall Burke, Ph.D. Senior Vice President, External Affairs

As Senior Vice President, External Affairs, Dr. Marshall Burke leads the TB Alliance's resource mobilization efforts and oversees the TB Alliance's Advocacy and Policy Department, including its community engagement efforts. A veteran executive with more than 25 years experience in the non-profit sector, Marshall Burke was most recently Senior Vice President of Resource Development for CARE International, one of the world's leading organizations in the fight against global poverty, and was responsible for doubling its yearly income in a five-year period to more than $125M annually. Throughout his career, Dr. Burke has successfully leveraged institutional, governmental, and other sources of funding, built numerous global partnerships, successfully advocated for policy and financial support, and implemented community outreach programs and strategies.

Born in Austria, Marshall moved to the United States as a young child. He grew up in Arizona, where he founded a hospice in Tucson while earning a Ph.D. from the University of Arizona. Dr. Burke then went on to spend 20 years at CARE in a number of positions of increasing responsibility in the United States, Latin America, and Africa. While working overseas, he was responsible for introducing CARE's HIV and Women's Health Program.
